Grandfather and Grandson Take skydive together for Throat Cancer Foundation, Raising Over £2,000

March 20, 2025 – In a powerful display of resilience and determination, Grandfather Karl and his 16-year-old grandson, Louis, took to the skies recently for a thrilling skydive to raise funds for the Throat Cancer Foundation. This incredible challenge was not just a milestone birthday celebration for Louis but a deeply personal mission, inspired by Karl's ongoing battle with throat cancer.

Karl, who has been diagnosed with throat cancer twice, continues to fight the disease with unwavering strength. His courage has touched the hearts of his family and community, motivating Louis to take on this daring skydive—not only as a personal challenge but as a way to support a cause that means so much to them. True to his fighting spirit, Karl refused to stay on the sidelines and instead joined his grandson for this unforgettable experience.

Originally setting a fundraising target of £900—£450 each—the duo has far exceeded expectations, raising an incredible £2,250. All proceeds will support the Throat Cancer Foundation, a charity dedicated to providing vital resources for individuals and families affected by throat cancer, funding crucial research, and increasing awareness.

"We are so thankful for any support—big or small," said Katherine and Sarah, family members organizing the fundraiser. "This is about creating lasting memories while making a real impact. Thank you to everyone who has already contributed!"

Supporters can still donate to their JustGiving page to help them continue making a difference: https://www.justgiving.com/page/karlandlouis1729290185606.

This heartwarming story is a testament to the power of resilience, family, and community support. Karl and Louis hope their journey inspires others to take action and contribute to the fight against throat cancer.
